Landmark School Online Courses for Middle and High School Students

Since 1971 Landmark School has earned recognition from parents and educators around the U.S. and the globe as a leader in providing effective and evidence-based strategies for students with dyslexia and other language-based learning disabilities. These methods are considered to be the gold standard for traditional learners as well.

Now, Landmark School's most useful and relevant topics are available as ONLINE courses for your middle and high school students. Courses are developed and taught by veteran Landmark School teachers and are divided into 10 manageable and well-organized modules. Students will benefit from foundational skills, a high-degree of contact with their instructor, and the ability to collaborate with fellow students.

Course offerings include:

- ▶ Study Skills: Executive Function 101
- ▶ Foundations of Written Expression
- ▶ Mastering Writing and Reading Comprehension
- ▶ Fundamentals of Research Writing for College

Testimonial

"...the [Study Skills] program was great. It was amazing to see my students' personalities come alive when interacting independently with new teachers. One of the kids' favorite modules was on organization...an area many of them struggle with! It was even helpful for me."

—Jennifer, Boston Public School Middle School Teacher

All courses are built using differentiated instruction and Universal Design for Learning (UDL). Our partners in course development are eLearning Innovation, experts in online pedagogy and technology for K-12 students. Courses are taught through Canvas, the online platform most widely used in schools, colleges, and universities.
